SENATOR REED AFTER SCALP OF BUDGET BUREAU

Denounces Reductions in Congress Appropriations as Unwarranted Usurpation of Legislative Powers

ACTION ILLEGAL AND DEFIANCE OF CONGRESS POWERS HE SAYS

Should be Impeached Declares Missouri Senator in Tax Bill Debate

WASHINGTON. — Action of the budget bureau in cutting down congressional appropriations for the federal departments as a part of the plan to reduce taxes was denounced in the senate Tuesday by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, "an impudent assertion of the right to set aside the action of the legislative body."

"I denounce this action as illegal," he declared. "I denounce it as a defiance of the power of congress. I assert that if allowed to proceed congress has forfeited the greatest right of a legislative body, namely the right to say how much shall be spent and when and where it shall be spent."

"If carried to its logical conclusion, the army could be dismissed, the navy junked and the operations of the government ended. For such action impeachments should be had."

Senator Reed declared that the sponsors of the tax revision bill had "dropped it like an illegitimate baby on the public doorstep and run away without having the grace even to attach to its skirt the usual legend—'Please be kind to the baby.'"

Need Services of Experts

Referring to promises that the measure would be one of the utmost simplicity, Senator Reed said it was so simple that members of the finance committee had needed the services of five treasury experts to "guide them along its crooked way," and that four experts had to be kept continuously in the senate so that the committee members explaining the bill would not go astray.

Declaring that he had heard the statement that the bill had been so interwoven with the present law drawn by the democrats that the minority could not object to it, Senator Reed said he was reminded of the "chicken thief who followed the beaten path in the hope that his footsteps would be lost in those of the honest man who had gone before."

Helps Rich Dodge Taxes

Analyzing the bill in detail, Senator Reed attacked the proposal to reduce the maximum income tax rate from sixty per cent to thirty per cent, declaring that the argument that this would keep the rich from evading taxes through investment in tax free securities was a "subterfuge" that would not stand the test of analysis.

"When the people of the country," continued Senator Reed, "learn what is being done by the silent gentlemen who sit here quietly not defending this bill and trying to pass it by a conspiracy of silence they will have something to say."

SEEK AGREEMENT ON PLACE FOR TRIAL OF GOVERNOR SMALL

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—In an effort to reach an agreement on some county mutually satisfactory as a place to go to trial with the Small embezzlement case, State's Attorney Mortimer and counsel for Governor Small met Tuesday for the first actual negotiations between them since the governor was arrested last summer on charges of defrauding the state treasury. Their purpose in meeting Tuesday was to settle, if possible, the question of another county before making argument on a change of venue in Judge P. W. Burton's court Wednesday.

DENBY CALLS FOR NAVAL RESERVE VOLUNTEERS

WASHINGTON. — Secretary Denby has issued a call for volunteers to the naval reserve forces, reduced from 200,000 to barely 5,000 by his recent order discharging all members of four reserve classes not on active duty. Mr. Denby's letter sent to each reservist explained that the department's action was made necessary by lack of appropriations, and pointed out the opportunity of joining the sixth class—the volunteer reserve—which serves without pay in peace time.

GOVERNMENT DRIVE ON INCOME TAXES STARTS THIS WEEK

Forty Field Agents Start Out in Wisconsin to Gather in the Delinquents.

VARIOUS METHODS ARE USED TO FIND THE UNPAID TAXES

Cases of Tax Dodging are Sometimes Reported

Government revenue agents having headquarters in La Crosse today started on a drive on federal income delinquents that will last four months and is expected to bring in many thousands of dollars into the national treasury. Forty field deputies will take part in the drive in Wisconsin.

All other activities of the field deputies will be suspended, and will not be resumed until work in connection with the filing of reports on income received during 1921 is taken up.

Not only will the tax agents collect unpaid taxes on 1920 incomes, but their investigations will go back to 1917, when the income tax law was passed, if a person or business concern is shown to have paid less than the proper amount of tax on income received during 1920. The inquiry will be made to see if the same is true of income received during the last seven years.

Lists furnished by employers, which contain the name of each person employed during 1920 and the amount paid to each, will be one of the principal means by which the deputies will run down delinquents. Records of transfers of land will be investigated to see if any profit resulted. Brokers' books will be examined for evidence of profit in the sale of securities.

The government will be aided in the campaign by the fact that frequently persons, through malice or because they conceive it their duty, report cases of tax dodging.

In small towns results are obtained from inspecting the list of persons who filed an income tax report during the previous year, and finding that someone known to be liable to a tax has not made a report. A list of taxpayers is posted in every postoffice. In large cities persons having a suspicion that someone who ought to file a report has not done so go to the internal revenue office and ask if a report has been filed.

SHIP COMPANY CHIEF UPHOLDS AGREEMENT WITH GREAT BRITAIN

Declares Agreement Attacked by Jones Does Not Affect American Flag Ships

DENIES JONES CHARGE THAT UNDERSTANDING WAS SECRET

Mercantile Marine Not Subject to Restraint by Britain

NEW YORK.—Operating agreements between the International Mercantile Marine company, an American corporation, and the British government did not affect the company's American flag ships even before the drafting of a supplementary agreement requested by the shipping board. T. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, told members of the board at a special hearing here Tuesday.

The hearing was called to obtain from Mr. Franklin a recital of details of the British agreement which was attacked by Senator Jones of Washington before its amendment as being inimical to the foreign commerce of the United States. Senator Jones charges it bound the company "to pursue no policy injurious to the interests of the British merchant marine or of British trade."

The agreement, originally drafted in 1903, was sought by the company, Mr. Franklin told the board, to offset advantages gained by the Cunard line when the British government began to build up that line by loans and favorable mail contracts, following acquisition of British tonnage by the International Mercantile Marine. The agreement gave the International Mercantile Marine the benefit of British mail and other valuable contracts. He denied that it had been kept secret as charged by Senator Jones.

"During nineteen years of operation under these agreements," he continued, "we have never been interfered with by the British government in the management of our ships, and no restraint of any kind has ever been placed upon us."

Mr. Franklin emphasized that the company was an American organization, 93 1/2 per cent of its stock being owned by American citizens. Only one-half of one per cent of the stock is held by English investors, he said, and a similar amount by Canadians. He asserted that recognizing the development of national aspirations for an American merchant marine the company began negotiations in 1918 to dispose of its British flag ships to a British syndicate, but that the sale was stopped at the request of President Wilson.

SOCIAL SERVICE

LAST Christmas it was impossible to supply the demands of everyone for very poor families for Christmas baskets. Everyone wanted to share happiness at that time. Some families were showered with more than they could possibly use at once, and the telephone was busy at the office of the Social Service society, then the Associated Charities—giving out the names of children who might not have a "Merry Christmas." People started in so early preparing for this season.

SOCIAL SERVICE SOCIETY

That the most needy families were arranged for many of them weeks ahead, by people who put real thought and devotion into their gifts for these less fortunate neighbors.

But the number of really needy families though considerable, is not indefinite, and often the benevolent individuals who call last, get the least desirable names. In one case, a young girl asked, the day before Christmas, for the name of a family with several children to whom she could give toys. Practically all of the children of whom the office knew were arranged for at that late time, except those in a family where the income was sufficient for ordinary living, but because of illness, there were heavy bills to pay, and the children were not to have very much of a Christmas. This was explained, and toys only were to be given, since no relief was necessary. The employer of the young woman, knowing the family circumstances, complained bitterly that these children should be remembered by the Social Service society even at Christmas time.

What every social worker wishes is that the Christmas spirit, so overflowing and unlimited in December, might be distributed somewhat over the other eleven months of the year—that people looking so zealously for poor families then, might be equally interested in January and March and November—after the roast and nuts and candy of the Christmas baskets have been long forgotten in the shadow of much sadder rationing—and the donor of the Christmas basket who demands the name of a family at the last minute and then complains that it is not poor enough, would take sufficient interest in his fellowman to systematically arrange his giving to the advantage of the receiver at the time when it is most necessary. If this were done conscientiously, the Christmas basket might never be needed by families.

The Social Service society is working with these families twelve months in the year—not only in December—and it must arrange its funds with that in mind.

Brother Describes How Accident "Might Have Happened"

CHICAGO, Ill.—Samuel Buffington, 14-year-old Boy Scout, who was found hanging in his closet Sunday afternoon with his hands tied behind his back, came to his death through an accident while at play, according to an opinion expressed Tuesday by Den Newman, chief investigator of the state's attorney's office.

Newman announced his theory following an all-night grilling of the lad's mother and stepfather and his ten-year-old brother Hugh.

The brother described his "opinion" of how Samuel might have died. "Someone might have tied his hands," Hugh said, and "might have" fixed the rope around his neck and Samuel "might have" stood upon a stool and then accidentally kicked it out from under him.

No stool was found in the closet, but Newman said he overheard a woman friend of the family tell the boy's mother Monday night that she could not "understand how he happened to think to take the stool away."

State's Attorney Crowe Monday began an investigation after it was discovered that the dead youth was heir to half of a $60,000 estate left by his father.

The boy's body was found hanging in a closet when the family returned home Sunday night. Police first leaned to the theory that the lad had accidentally hanged himself while experimenting. Police said later, however, that they did not believe the boy could have tied the knots himself.

SMALL STATES FIGHT STRICT APPLICATION OF BLOCKADE RULES

Oppose too Rigid Plan for Economic Blockade for Violator of League Pact

GENEVA.—By The Associated Press.—Eight small states, members of the league of nations, resumed in Tuesday morning's session of the assembly of the league, their fight against the too rigid application of blockade regulations which are prescribed as one of the weapons to be used by the league against a state which has violated the covenant of the organization.

Greece has been especially active in her effort to bring about an amendment of article 16 of the covenant of the league so that no nation can initiate a blockade on its own account without previous notification from the council of the league that the blockade of a covenant breaker is in order.

ARREST OF THREE EXPECTED TO CLEAR UP MAIL ROBBERY

CHICAGO, Ill.—Postal inspectors announced Monday they expect to clear up the $1,000,000 mail robbery at the Union station here last January 17, as a result of the arrest during the past week of three men. They are hunting for a fourth.

Four men held up mail drivers at the station and escaped in an automobile with several bags of registered mail.

Last week the postal inspectors learned $40,000 in Liberty bonds had been pledged with a north side bank as security for a loan of $3,750. They found the bonds were part of the robbers' loot. The three arrests followed and one is said to have confessed, naming a fourth man.

GOVERNORS AND MAYORS URGED TO AID IN WORK

President Appeals for Organizations in Every Community to Help Relieve Unemployment Situation

CENTRAL EMPLOYMENT AGENCY TO BE MAINTAINED AT CAPITAL

Recommendations for Permanent Policy Will Not be Completed for Two Weeks

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Governors and mayors throughout the country were asked by President Harding in a public statement on Monday to organize in each community machinery for the correction of economic conditions along lines worked out by the unemployment conference here.

The conference, the president declared, had demonstrated that conditions could not be met properly without such local co-operation. He announced that central agency would be maintained here under auspices of the conference to give national coordination to the rehabilitation effort.

Statement of President

The president's statement follows: "The conference which I recently summoned to Washington to advise us to the unemployment situation has demonstrated that an unusual volume of unemployment exists and that pending the recuperation of trade the situation can not be met in due regard to our obligation throughout these states and municipalities where unemployment has reached considerable proportions."

"The conference has recommended a plan of organization which has had the support of commercial, manufacturing, professional and labor representatives of the country. It is highly necessary that more accurate knowledge should be had, through such organization, of the volume and necessities of the unemployed. It is essential that the co-operation of all sections of each community should be brought into action behind such organization to provide work and assistance that we may pass through the coming winter without great suffering and distress."

Appeals to Executives

"It is of national importance that every community should at once undertake such organization in order that the nation may be protected as a whole. Moreover, the thorough community plan, such a task is sure to start a thousand activities which will add to our common welfare."

"I, therefore, appeal to the governors and mayors of the nation that they should take the steps recommended by the conference. "In order that there may be unity of action by all the forces which may be brought to bear, whether governmental or private, the unemployment conference is establishing an agency in Washington through which appropriate co-operation can be promoted, and through which reports on all progress and suggestions may be given general circulation and co-operation."

"I trust this agency will be supported in this endeavor."

Final plans for the central employment agency are practically completed, conference officials said, and Secretary Hoover is to make an announcement on Tuesday outlining the character of the organization.

Woods to Head Job Agency

Col. Arthur Woods, former police commissioner of New York, is understood to be under consideration for appointment as head of the agency.

Possibility of reducing the number of the nation's unemployed through use of unskilled workmen in the construction of new highways and in the maintenance of roads already built, was discussed at a meeting of the executive committee of the National association of state highway officials. To aid in this effort, it was proposed to seek from the war department road building machinery of which the department has a surplus.

Wage Loss Is Six Billion

Losses in earnings of workers throughout the country during the past fiscal year, due to involuntary idleness were put at more than $6,500,000,000 in an estimate prepared by economic experts of the national conference on unemployment.

This estimate, it was explained, covered the loss in wages because of unemployment of all the jobless in the country from July 1, 1920 to August 15, 1921, and was based on an approximation of normal pay levels rather than on the scales at the peak of high wages. Efforts of the conference, it was said, would be turned toward a remedy for the economic loss to the country from such reductions of the earning power of its workers in the (Continued on page six)

STRONG MUST BEAR

Join the S. S. S.

THE ward-workers of the Community Council will start on Wednesday to canvass the city for memberships in the Social Service Society, and there are some compelling reasons why they should be well received at every door they approach. One of the chief of the reasons is indicated by the fact that with their membership canvass the ward-workers are to make, as well, a survey of the unemployment situation in the community. It is improbable that any plan of mitigating the distress of unemployment this winter will carry very far before it finds need of the services of the Social Service Society. As the focal point of all social relief and reconstruction work in La Crosse the Social Service Society is likely to be even more importantly useful this year than ever, and if only for this work ahead of it should command the most loyal support of the citizens.

Aside from the possible discovery or creation of new jobs which will create work for the idle, perhaps the chief element in any planning for grappling with unemployment will be means of distributing the available positions where they will be socially most effective. In a situation where there are not jobs enough to go round it is essential that those that can be made available be given first to men of family. Work may have to be rationed, and to do this properly means to keep a steady eye on the "greatest good to the greatest number". It is a question of information and investigation to do this properly. And this is exactly the province of the Social Service Society. It offers just the means, the record and personnel trained to the work, that is necessary to perform the task. Properly to conduct any unemployment relief means to limit it rigidly to La Crosse people, that our resources may not be overtaxed to care for drifters or unemployed who may be attracted by reports of the assistance undertaken here. Again there is no agency so adequately equipped by experience and method for the task as the Social Service Society.

Year in, year out, winter and summer, the Social Service Society has been acting in La Crosse as a clearing house for benevolence, as an agency of investigation and aid in family rehabilitation. Its work has been useful in the past—even in times of prosperity it finds much to do. But in times of economic depression, as at present, its routine work is redoubled, and it will have thrown upon it the additional work which the community will have to require of it in attacking the grim specter of unemployment. It will require all the resources of financial and moral support that can be mustered from the community. It should have them, and it will, we do not doubt, if the householders to whom the ward-workers come for the small membership fee will recognize that there is being presented to them one of the few direct opportunities they will have to do something tangible and effective in relieving the distress which faces hundreds of their fellow-citizens this winter. Membership in the Social Service Society is our chance to help. We cannot in self-respect ignore it.

Majorities' Rights

THE United States senate may have a new cloture rule. The idea is backed by the administration leaders, and is aimed to prevent that practice known as "talking bills to death". La Follette prevented a tax measure by this practice in the last session. He took the floor, but as he held the whip hand the friends of the measure did not press it. In the last hours of the session immediately preceding our entry into the war La Follette and others talked the Chamberlain army bill—was it not?—back into its pigeon hole. Early in his senatorial career Senator La Follette and the late Senator "Jim" Stone conducted the most sensational filibuster in history. If memory serves it was a railroad bill. Sunday papers announce that wets in the senate will talk the beer bill to death. Many filibusters have been staged for good causes—that is, against bad legislation. But the practice is not a good one because it is employed only when a minority seeks to tie the hands of the majority. We elect our legislative bodies to represent the whole country by majorities. In obstructing the will of the majority the minority sets itself above the principle of majority rule, which is fundamental in a democracy. That the minority is sometimes right does not justify the thing, for it is sometimes wrong, and if there is any presumption in the matter it is that the lesser group is in error. The filibuster never settles anything. At tremendous expense it delays legislation and wastes the time of legislative bodies without permanent effect, as eventually the majority passes its bill. As a means of political advertising it has high merit, as its speakers gain the limelight at critical moments.

Rules governing debate in the senate should be fair. The minority should be given ample opportunity to express its views. But the rules should not waste the senate's time nor the taxpayers' money, nor should the rule of the majority be frustrated even temporarily by a dissenting minority.

The Victor Artists

LA CROSSE is indebted to Leithold's for one of the happiest evenings of the year. The Victor Artists came with song and fun and went away acclaimed one of the greatest groups of entertainers that ever visited this city. It was not as strangers that they came, for in thousands of homes they had long been household favorites, and so the concert was in some sense a reception for old and valued friends. The program contained many a song popular in the community, and the simplicity which characterized its presentation added much to its charm. Freedom from the common affectations of the stage, its tricks and palpable deceptions, brought the performers and the audience together and created a familiar, almost chummy feeling. It is the poorer art which must rely upon stage effects for its impressions. Only great artists can afford simplicity and candor. And in subjecting themselves to this test and emerging triumphant the Victor Artists gave convincing proof of their genius. Aside from the personalities of the artists, the concert was interesting in the proof which it afforded of the faithfulness with which the modern graphophone reproduces the human voice in all its sweetness, its variations of mood and sentiment, and in the clarity of enunciation.

An audience which left room for a few who might have found seats lost no opportunity to emphasize the artistic success of the enterprise. It dispersed to advertise the concert as peer of any ever enjoyed by La Crosse music lovers. That had its merit been understood the demand for tickets would have doubled the capacity seems probable. And so, in congratulating Leithold's upon an enterprise notable among musical opportunities one may properly suggest that a return engagement would doubtless be greeted with satisfaction of which evidence would be substantially expressed at the box office.

A FEMININE VICTORY

By FREDERICK HART

"What do you think of your chances?"
"Well, Mr. Cutler, I hardly know. If I can carry the Ninth I'll be all right."

"Charlie, that's a big contract." The man addressed as Charlie looked gloomily at the floor. He was a young man who would at first glance be passed as rather ordinary and unassuming; but there was something about his manner that compelled a second glance, and that second glance showed that his quiet manner really indicated repressed power. His clean-cut mouth and chin belonged to a weak character. His complexion was a man many years his senior, a fine-looking man of fifty, with a white mustache and imperial.

"Charlie," continued Mr. Cutler thoughtfully, "I've set my heart on having you elected district attorney. It's a post that needs just such a man as you are to fill it; but the people aren't awake. Election's only two weeks off, and they still cling to their old traditions. Particularly in the Ninth, it looks bad."

Charles Livingston nodded gloomily. His whole ambition centered around his election to the coveted post which he sought; and not only his ambition but his heart's desire was involved. For Phyllis Cutler, the daughter of the man who was now speaking in tones of discouragement, filled his heart as his political ambition did his mind. He loved her, and was aware that she returned the sentiment; but there was no use speaking to her now, for she would only point to a strong position honorably won. He must win that election. And yet, without the all-important Ninth ward—the social center of the city—he was helpless.

And he had no social position. He had come from the country five years before and by superhuman struggles had made a success of law; in his practice he had become acquainted with Col. Hubert Cutler, and through him had met Phyllis—met her and lost his heart to her, all on the same evening. And now he was candidate for district attorney in opposition to the machine! It was all honor; but what a disaster if he lost! And he needed the Ninth to win. Col. Cutler had already confessed his inability to swing that deciding ward.

The two men sat in silence. Then Livingston rose and bade the colored good-night. As he was passing out through the entrance hall he heard a light step behind him and a voice that he knew and loved called softly.

"Charlie?"
"Yes, Phyllis?" He allowed some of his discouragement to creep into his voice.

"Charlie, I heard all that you and daddy said. It is so important to carry the Ninth ward?"

"It's vital, dear, and if I don't win I won't be elected and I can't ask your father for the thing I want so much."

"The girl in the dim hallway kissed him. "Don't be discouraged, dear. If daddy won't have you unless you're district attorney, why will just have to make you district attorney, that's all."

"But, Phyllis!" he smiled, in spite of his discouragement, at her impulsiveness. "I can't get any influence in the Ninth. The machine has prevented your father—the only one I know in that ward—from using his influence. He's helpless, and so am I. I must make the best fight that I know how—charlie's all any one can do."

"Charlie, dear, don't be discouraged. I'll all come right—just you wait!"

And with these words and a parting kiss she was gone.

But as election time approached Charles Livingston was forced to confess to himself that all was coming to naught. His standing and personality assured him an even break throughout the city except in the fatal Ninth ward. There would be just enough against him to swing the election to his opponent. He went through the work preceding the momentous day mechanically, and when election day itself came found he set himself to watch the returns with stoical resignation.

He was in his office at 3 that night, having eaten nothing since breakfast. His faithful secretary and a few friends were with him. Most of the returns were in, and the results showed what everybody knew—that the Ninth would swing the balance one way or the other. His secretary turned to answer the telephone.

"Here comes the Ninth, chief!" he cried in a shaking voice.

"And here goes our chance!" replied Livingston. But even as the words were on his lips, the secretary uttered a cry of triumph. "Chief, Charlie! You carried the Ninth by 1,500! We win!"

The shock of the unexpected words threw Livingston off his mental balance for an instant. When he recovered himself he heard wild footsteps on the stairs and a great shouting in the streets. The city was celebrating his election and his friends were rushing to congratulate him. He had won!

Very late that night, when the last well-wisher had retired and the last rocket had spluttered and died, Livingston went into the room where he had before consulted with Col. Cutler. He had come to the Cutler house to receive his friends, as the colonel had invited him, as his own office was too small. Now that his battle was over he wanted his reward.

"Well, my love, I don't see any objection if Phyllis doesn't," said the colonel. "You won your victory and you deserve her. To tell you the truth, I didn't think you'd do it. For the Ninth seemed dead against us. I couldn't stir to help you. I'd give something to know what swung it your way."

Into the room there burst Phyllis—a laughing, happy Phyllis.

"Oh, daddy, I was listening again. I'm so glad you want Charlie as much as I do. And I'm so happy!"

"And—listen!" She drew the two men confidentially to her. "I carried the Ninth myself."

"What?" Col. Cutler could hardly believe his ears.

"Yes, I did. You men were help—less—I knew that—but don't forget

ONE REEL YARNS

THE LION AND THE WILD MEN

Rajah had lived in the circus ever since he could remember. All he knew about jungle life he had heard from old Nuba, an African lion who shared half Rajah's wagon cage.

Rajah didn't think he'd like to live where food had to be hunted.

He liked having people admire his tawny coat. He liked to walk back and forth in his cage and show his teeth. He liked peering through the streets while the band played.

One bright, June morning during the street parade, he was feeling very frisky. He threw himself playfully against the bars of his cage. Suddenly, the door of the cage, accidentally left unlocked, flew open.

Rajah tumbled into the street.

He got up and looked about him, bewildered. The horses that drew his wagon were plunging down the street. People were screaming and running about in a queer way. It frightened Rajah.

On the edge of the crowd he saw a man who looked like his keeper. Rajah started after him, but every one seemed to disappear.

He started to follow him, but every one seemed to disappear. He started to follow him, but every one seemed to disappear.

STATE IS GRANTED INJUNCTION AGAINST NEW CO-OP SOCIETY

Temporary Writ Issued to Stop
Sale of Profit-Sharing Debentures in State

MADISON, Wis.—A temporary injunction restraining the Wisconsin Co-operative society from selling its profit-sharing debentures in Wisconsin under the present form, was issued by Judge E. Ray Stevens in circuit court today. The restraining order takes effect at once.

The judge, in granting application of the state for an injunction, said that in his opinion the plan of business was not cooperative, but he left open the question of any action on the part of the court should the form of contract of the society be changed. When this change is made the injunction no longer applies.

R. M. Hoyt, deputy attorney general, prosecuting the case, said that if a change in the form of contract is made without changing the manner of doing business, the state will at once apply for another injunction. He said that the attorney general feels that the plan of the society is a violation of the co-operative laws.

The Wisconsin Co-operative society, according to the plan explained to Judge Stevens, is engaged in selling $5,000,000 of profit-sharing debentures in Wisconsin, which pay profit-sharing dividends, due in twenty years. The company which is directed by the holders of $10,000 of capital stock plans to establish a string of grocery stores as soon as enough of the $75 notes are sold.

In arguments to the court, attorneys for the co-operative society upheld the right of a company under the cooperative law, to borrow money and to operate the business on borrowed capital, as the form of the society provided.

Mr. Hoyt replied that the co-operative law did not sanction any general financing of a business on borrowed capital, with no security, or to promise to pay anything before twenty years, when the debentures will mature.

The hearing on the application of the state for dissolution of the co-operative society will be heard before Judge Stevens either during the latter part of October or the first of November. Only the one point of the form of contract was involved in the first hearing on application for an injunction.

The society was placed under $10,000 bond by Judge Stevens last week to protect individuals purchasing notes after the court action started.

If Stomach is Out of Order
—“Dipepsin”

Every year regularly more than a million stomach sufferers in the United States, England and Canada take Diapsin, and realize not only immediate, but lasting relief. This harmless antacid helps digest anything you eat and overcomes a sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach in five minutes. If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion. Get from ten to twenty-sixty-cent cases of Diapsin. There will be no sour fumes, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no gas or heartburn, no fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, no nausea, headache or intestinal gripping. Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this food fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or indigestion.

REFUGEES WAIT IN RAIN AND SNOW FOR TRANSPORTATION OUT OF RUSS FAMINE AREA

ASTRAKHAN, Russia.—By The Associated Press.—Hopeless groups of famine refugees crowd the wharves of Astrakhan, which in happier times were filled with the fides of commerce. Bitter rains are falling almost continually and the first snow of the Russian winter has whitened the roofs of buildings but the throngs of entrants have no shelter while they wait, perhaps vainly, for transportation to the Kuban and Don regions, where they can obtain food. Astrakhan is a city of misery and suffering and death.

The traveler who has seen Russia in times of plenty may expect to meet with a very different scene here. Disillusionment in store for him, however, for everywhere he sees thin faces, the skin of which is seemingly stretched tight across the cheekbones. He remembers Astrakhan filled with industries and commerce, but he finds it but a shadow of its former self. Its grain and fishing industries have declined 70 per cent. When once 2,000 ships daily sailed up and down “Mother Volga,” there are now hardly 100.

Death seems to dog the footsteps of the refugees. They are fleeing from starvation, but many hungry children and adults die from the first food they eat, the very bread they have striven for proving fatal to them in their weakened condition. Meat or bread cost 3,000 rubles or about five cents per pound but there are few who have money to pay this price day after day.

Disease Takes Many

Disease has played its part in the ruin. Black typhus has taken a terrible toll during the winter 1919-20, in the districts further north as well. Every one of every hundred physicians died during the awful scourge. During the past summer Asiatic cholera and malaria have carried off thousands of victims.

When one asks the people the causes for the present terrible condition of affairs, the inevitable answer is: “There has been no rain.” The only ray in the gloom is the fact that the potato crop was slightly larger than usual, and for the moment this crop is helping in the solution of the problem of hunger.

Medicines cannot be found here. In the entire province of Astrakhan, which measures 90,000 square miles, there are only 500 grains of quinine, it is declared.

Medicine Sorely Needed

The correspondent of the Associated Press has visited several homes where malaria patients are lying. In each he has found the mothers or wives of sufferers sitting in blank despair saying: “We have no quinine; we can do nothing.”

A floating hospital is maintained at one point in the delta of the Volga where sick sailors are taken from Caspian sea vessels and 100 deaths from under-nourishment and lack of medicines occurred there in August. Dr. Novanoff, in charge of this hospital, wept for joy when given a supply of quinine and castor oil.

Along the western coast of the Caspian stands the island of Shiloi, where one of the grimmest tragedies of the famine was recently enacted. Mariners noticed the lighthouse on the island was darkened and landed to investigate. They found in the lighthouse.

VIRGINIA WARWICK, BATHING BEAUTY, IN “FOUR HORSEMEN”

Playing Role of Chichi She Exhibits Genuine Dramatic Ability; in Sennett Comedies

Playing the role of Chichi in “The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse,” which is to be the attraction at the Riviera theater for a week beginning next Sunday, Oct. 9, is the first dramatic work of Virginia Warwick, the former Mack Sennett bathing beauty.

VIRGINIA WARWICK
as CHICHI in “THE FOUR HORSEMEN OF THE APOCALYPSE”

matic work of Virginia Warwick, the former Mack Sennett bathing beauty.

In taking this part, in which she enacts the role of a sister of Julio, Miss Warwick is said to have exhibited genuine dramatic ability. This is the ingenue role of the picture and Miss Warwick is said to have put into the part in the early scenes balanced proportions of beauty and girlish coquetry. She is then seen as the young wife whose husband goes to the front, and later she is the kind sympathetic nurse-wife when her young husband returns a maimed and disfigured youth.

Miss Warwick joined the Mack Sennett comedy forces about fifteen months ago as a member of the bathing beauty brigade. Later she left Sennett and went with Fox, where she played in the Sunshine Comedies.

Rex Ingram, who directed “The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse,” and June Mathis, who adapted the famous story, found considerable difficulty in casting the role of Chichi. They cross-examined a number of possibilities, but none proved capable of handling the role.

The evening Mr. Ingram attended a motion picture theater show in Hollywood and happened to see Miss Warwick in the company. He decided right then that she was exactly the girl for the part of Chichi. The following morning he sent one of his assistants over to the comedy studio with a description of Miss Warwick. However, this again failed to locate her, so Mr. Ingram himself went over and upon finding her immediately engaged her for the role in “The Four Horsemen.”

Miss Warwick's work has been highly praised by both Mr. Ingram and Miss Mathis, and she has fulfilled all expectations for the part of Chichi. Not only does she photograph well, but has proved a capable little actress and a most conscientious worker.

St. Louis is Miss Warwick's birthplace, and she is not backward in telling that she was born in 1903. She received her early schooling in that city, and later attended school in Los Angeles and also studied classic dancing. Miss Warwick has appeared at numerous entertainments in a dancing act. She is also an expert swimmer and this gained for her the first engagement with Mack Sennett. She won several cups in aquatic contests while in school.

Carl Akaley, of New York Museum of Natural History, to Show Famous Pictures Here

Lovers of thrills will enjoy that particular one which comes once in a lifetime when Carl Akaley, noted hunter of big game, animal sculptor and naturalist, appears here in the Normal lecture course to lecture on his remarkable experiences in darkest Africa.

Local folks will have ample opportunity to shoot, spear, and otherwise ensnare “specimens” with Mr. Akaley, for during his many visits to African jungles, the real inspiration for his work lay in the fact that he wanted the most perfect specimens of the wild life of Africa, to grace the corridors of the New York museum, and also the Field Museum of Chicago. On the occasion of his lecture here Mr. Akaley will lead his audience right up to, and even beyond the danger zone, where he personally filmed the most remarkable wild animal pictures ever made. And his audience will enjoy “close-ups” of charging elephants, nasty looking hippos, sneering baboons, sleepy looking hippos, and innumerable other animals of the jungles.

Undoubtedly Carl Akaley is today one of America's most interesting men. He is not only known as the foremost big game hunter of the day, but is almost equally well known as our leading animal sculptor and taxidermist. In fact it was Carl Akaley who made an art of taxidermy. His mountings and his bronze groups occupy much space in both the New York and Chicago museums. It is also of interest to know that Mr. Akaley has just recently been chosen to build the proposed Roosevelt Memorial—a signal honor for the noted sculptor. His pictures are said to be the most remarkable views ever filmed.

day following the publication of the official crop condition figures by the department of agriculture. After selling up to $21.50 for December delivery, a new high record, prices broke $9.50 per bale.

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads and that is to dissolve them.

To do this get two ounces of calomel powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the parts without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions from the body that form in the pores of the skin—pinching and squeezing only cause irritation, make large pores, and do not get them out after they become hard. The calomel powder and the water simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anybody troubled with these unsightly blemishes should certainly try this simple method.

TRIBUTE TO FALLEN SOLDIERS IS PAID BY SERVICE STAR LEGION

Convention at Cleveland Holds Most Remarkable Pageant of Kind Ever Staged

MRS. MAX MAYER, IOWA CITY, IS NEW NATIONAL PRESIDENT

New Type of Insignia is Adopted by the Society

Tribute to the memory of the American soldiers who fell in the World War was paid by delegates from all parts of the United States, mothers, wives, daughters, sisters and grandmothers of veterans, at the fourth annual convention of the Service Star Legion, held September 12 to 15 in Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. R. W. Rogers and Mrs. A. V. Ingham of La Crosse, attended the convention as delegates from La Crosse.

"The Hour of Remembrance," the tribute was called, and it was declared to be the most impressive memorial service ever held. A huge pageant was staged in front of the Art Museum in Cleveland, where an altar of gold and white was erected for a background. Public school children sang patriotic songs. A procession of little girls, dressed in yellow, held stars fashioned of golden rod on the altar. A band played softly throughout the symbolic pantomime. There were patriotic speeches, a prayer and taps. This service was attended by the hundreds of delegates and many other visitors and took place immediately after a drive over boulevards, through the parks and Cleveland Heights, which are lined with Memorial trees.

All of the delegates were in favor of the bonus bill for soldiers and will strive to have it passed. Ways and means to help disabled ex-service men were discussed at almost every session of the convention.

Causes Waywardness
"It has never been our desire to dictate to adults, but we firmly believe that lack of simple styles for school girls is the cause of more waywardness among girls than any other contributing factor," declared Mrs. David M. Blaine, Toledo delegate, who addressed the delegates on simple style measures.

"The reason that we advocate simplicity of dress is that our organization is truly American and the spirit of our nation calls for equality, but equality can never be obtained among school girls if some dress in the height of fashion and others have to go to school in makeshift attempts at stylish gowns."

To illustrate her points Mrs. Blaine had daughters of three Cleveland members of the legion dress up in different styles for the delegates.

Haps Extravagant Habits
Extravagant habits were capped by Representative Theodore E. Burton and Charles E. Adams of Cleveland, who addressed the Service Star Legion.

"It is your high privilege and duty to promote a sane, dispassionate spirit among our young people," Representative Burton said. "The present tendency toward the superficial, the leaning toward that which is emotional or hysterical, must be checked. It is to the women of mature age and conservative thought, such as you, that we must look to preserve balance in this troubled world."

Representative Burton also deplored the interest in sports which he declared is over-emphasized.

This thought was also stressed by Mr. Adams, who, after pointing out the fact that 130,000 men are out of work in Cleveland, referred to the Kilbane-Push fight as one of the city's "foolish extravaganzas."

Iowa Woman President
Mrs. Max Mayer of Iowa City, Ia., was elected national president of the Service Star Legion.

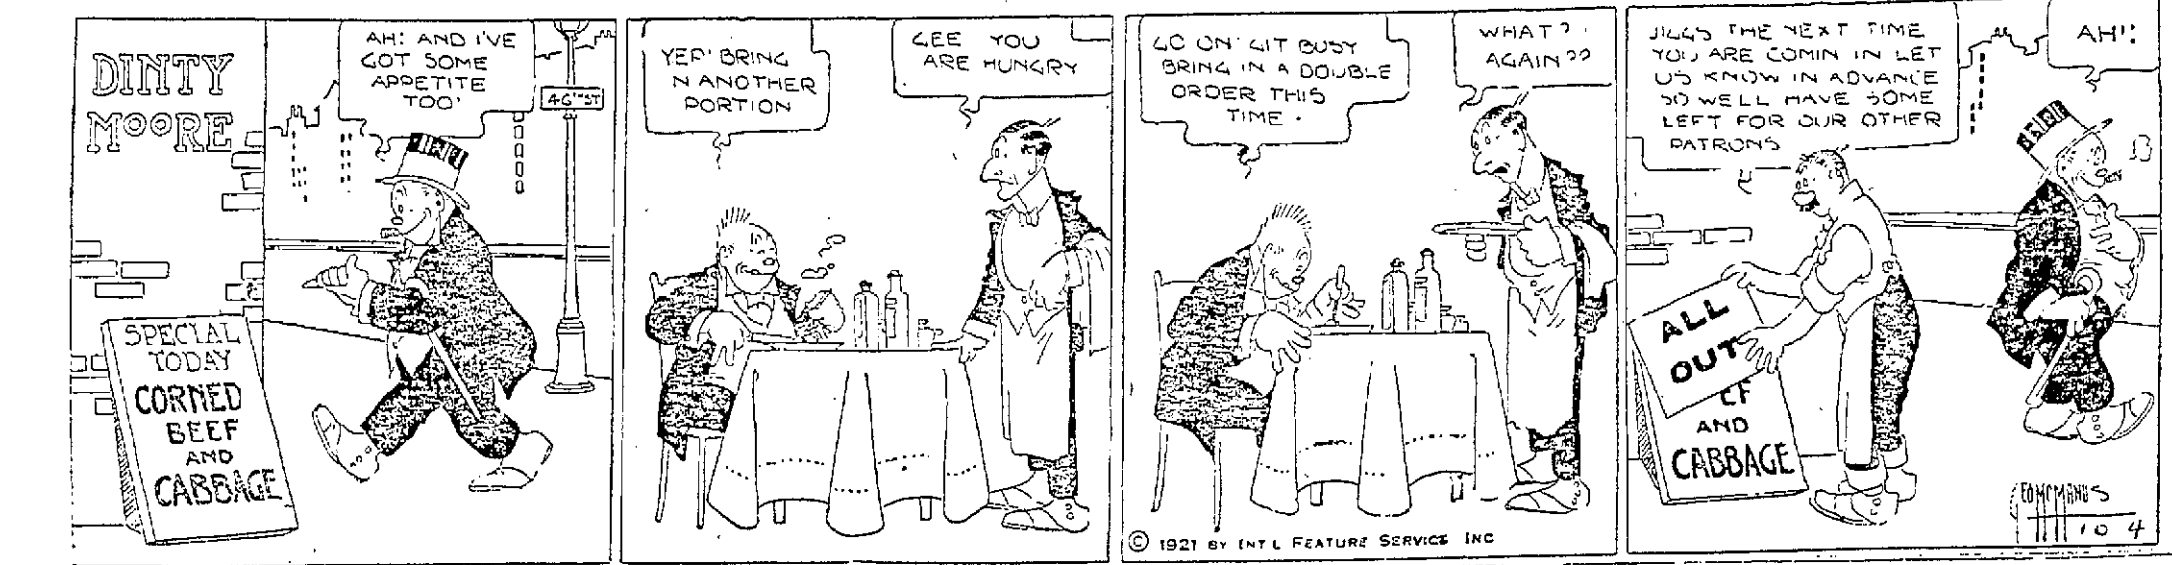

The election of officers and twenty-three directors followed a demonstration in which Mrs. M. A. Toy, national president, refused re-election, an honor tendered her unanimously by the convention earlier in the session.

Delegates rose to their feet and cheered Mrs. Toy's name, and cries came from all over the floor: "We want Mrs. Toy."

With tears in her eyes, Mrs. Toy told how much she appreciated the tribute, but said she was compelled to refuse.

When it was apparent that she would not be a candidate the convention elected the following national officers, in addition to Mrs. Mayer: Mrs. T. Parkin Scott, Relay, Md., first vice president; Mrs. William W.

The convention also voted to tax, or lifting the ban on the sale of German goods.

A new type of insignia was adopted in a pin, combining in effective form the blue star and the American eagle on a background of a forty-eight pointed star, each point representing a state.

HISTORY OF SERVICE STAR LEGION
The Service Star Legion, Inc., is a national organization of the women relatives of the men and women of the world war. During the war, while their men were fighting in France the legion here at home helped win the war by:

Giving women regular opportunities to meet for the renewal of courage, thus guarding the morale of the women whose letters so strongly affected the morale of the fighting forces. Bringing to light and killing dangerous propaganda which during the war was maliciously spread among the relatives of soldiers.

Assisting in every patriotic campaign by adding to appeals for money and for workers the irresistible voice of the women who had given their sons to the cause.

Helping mould public opinion in national crises by expressing the loyal attitude of the women whose men were risking their lives in battle.

The first national convention was held in Evansville, Ind., in September, 1918. Plans at that time were made for greater unity in war work of all organizations of women relatives of soldiers.

In October, 1919, a second annual convention was held in Baltimore at which the following eleven organizations, which had been operating in different sections of the country under different names, some organized as early as 1917, were united under the name Service Star Legion:

Organizations United
War Mothers of America, Mothers of Democracy, Daughters of Liberty, Daughters of the Nation, Women of American Patriots, Women's Patriotic League of America, Samuels' Mother's Club, Sunset Division of Service League, White Star Hospital Service, Mother's Club of Virginia, American Mothers of National Defenders.

Later, a Division of Honor, known as the National Gold Star Division, in which were enrolled women whose relatives gave their lives for their country. One of the sessions at the Cleveland convention, just held, was conducted by the Gold Star women.

Since the war the La Crosse division of the Service Star Legion has been especially active in caring for wounded and sick soldiers who have been confined in La Crosse hospitals. Since last Easter 45 soldiers at St. Francis hospital have received gifts of flowers, fruits, candies and tobacco.

Those who are able to be taken from the hospital are given automobiles frequently. The Legion also is planning on caring for a young soldier, his wife and child who live in this city and who is unable to work because of tuberculosis.

The Evansville, Ind., Service Star Legion has bought a cottage and presented it to Mrs. Alice Gresham Dodd of Evansville, the first gold star mother in the United States. She is the mother of James Bethel Gresham, the first American soldier killed in action in the World War. The cottage was in the nature of a memorial and a gift from the Legion to Mrs. Dodd.

Safe as a Bank!

Why do you so often hear that expression?
What makes banking the safest business?
What does this mean to you?

If You Are a Banker:

You believe in figures—accurate figures, and enough of them to show clearly just where your business, or any borrower's business stands.

Therefore you believe in the business principle embodied in Burroughs Machines, in their accuracy, time-saving, and profitable service to business.

Doubtless you post your ledgers on a Burroughs—most banks do—but are you familiar with all the ways Burroughs can serve you?

Have you seen the application of Burroughs Calculators to interest and analysis, or of other Burroughs Machines to teller's proof, transit letters, check and deposit journals, and many other bank uses?

If not, ask us for information, you'll find it interesting.

If You Are a Business Man:

You certainly desire to run your business as well as the banker does his

—to be sure that accounts are posted, balanced and proved daily;

—to have an automatic check on over-extension of credit, to make prompt collections and avoid bad debts.

Then why not do it? It requires no big investment—you can buy a Burroughs Machine on easy terms. You will be surprised to see how quickly it will pay for itself, by preventing costly mistakes, saving time, and giving you a check on all your operations.

If you don't feel sure that it will more than pay its own way, we don't want you to take it. Call us on the telephone and let's talk it over.

GIANTS HAVE EDGE OVER YANKEES ON SPEED OF INFIELD

Infield Positions Compared in Studying Chances of Each Club to Cop

TWO VETERAN SHORTSTOPS APPEAR IN WORLD SERIES

Apparent that Giant Infield is Superior

NEW YORK.—It is decidedly unfair to compare Miller Huggins' Yankee infield to a pie wagon horse and McGraw's Giant infield to a thoroughbred, yet there is a considerable difference between the speeds of the two infields. For as far as we know there is nothing to prevent a thoroughbred from being fitted to a pie wagon.

In considering the chances of the Yankees having of grabbing the world's series, which starts Wednesday at the Polo grounds between the two Manhattan clubs, the infield as a whole is studied, tested and mailed over by the dopers as much as any of the other positions.

Edge to Giants on Speed

It is likely that the Giants' infielders will outshine the Yankee infielders during the classic, as far as speed is concerned. If their past performances are any criterion of what they will do, hope derived from a compilation of the averages of the Giants and Yankee infielders during the season just closed gives the edge on comparison to the Giants.

At first base for the Yankees will be Wally Pipp, a capable, steady gent, who seldom loses his nerve. He played in 153 games this year and wound up with a fielding average of .991, being credited with fourteen errors. Pipp is a pretty fair sort of a hitter.

Kelly Hitting First Sacker

At first for the Giants will be George Kelly, an angular youth from the coast, who is as long as they come and as supple as an elephant's trunk.

Two Great Shortstops

Seldom has a world's series seen a better brace of shortstops than this fall. The short field will be evenly handled for the Yankees by Roger Peckinpaugh, since "Duck," a wise old customer, Dave Bancroft, imported from Philadelphia when the veteran Art Fletcher was consigned to the Phillies, will hold down shortstop for the Giants.

Bancroft perhaps surpasses Peckinpaugh in speed, but Roger has a head that doesn't need mending. The two players are pretty evenly balanced as far as defensive playing is concerned. Bancroft's batting has been superior to Peckinpaugh's, but that may not mean much in a series of six or seven games.

Giants' Infield Superior

Taking all things into consideration, it is apparent that the Giants' infield is superior to that of the Yanks. The Giant infielders' batting average for the season is .311 and the Yanks' .289, in fielding the Giant players' aggregate percentage is .971, against .967 for the American leaguers.

But, when 38,000 yelling fans flood Brush stadium the Giant infield may forget what its average is. Such things have happened.

DUNBAR DEFEATED BY STUART MONDAY IN SIXTH PRELIM

In the sixth preliminary pocket-billiard contest of the La Crosse Pocket-Billiard league, F. A. Stuart again came out on the long end of the score by defeating Harry Dunbar, who played at Roth's room, by a count of 100 to 28.

Mr. Stuart made high runs of 26 and 25 while Dunbar made a run of 14.

Tonight's game will be played on the north side at Henry Wittenberg's room. "Hook" says he has a player who will give Stuart a good battle, and a large attendance and an interesting game is expected. The game will start promptly at 8:30.

CUE ARTIST BEATS LOCAL BILLIARD PLAYER TWO GAMES

Clarence Jackson, noted billiardist making a tour of this section, displayed the tricks of the game to local fans at the 8, and 11, billiard room Monday afternoon and evening.

In the afternoon Jackson defeated Herbert Hart 250 to 38 at straight mill and in the evening Jackson repeated his performance of defeating the local man at 14-2 ballline billiards, 200 to 18, making two beautiful runs of 88 and 98.

Following the games, Jackson gave a lecture on the game and entertained fans for a short time with fancy shots.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—John Lagron, Scotland, Mo., present champion, defeated Charles Weston of Pittsburgh, 50 to 34, in the opening game of the national three-cushion billiard championship.

LA CROSSE CLAIMS MANAGER OF BADGER FOOTBALL ELEVEN

BY BOB DUNN
For the first time in several years, La Crosse will enjoy the honor this fall of claiming the manager of the Wisconsin football team, according to dope on the campus. Although the official election of a football manager has not taken place as yet, it is expected in inside circles that Thomas Stavenum will get the nod. Stavenum has been working with the team for the three years he has been in school and last season served in the capacity of assistant football manager and as such made all the trips with the team to the several conference schools which were met on the gridiron.

FRATERNAL BOWLING LEAGUE

Winners of three game series in the Fraternal bowling league at the Lotus alleys Monday evening made clean sweeps of the sets in each case. John Williams featured in the three game victory of the R. C. G. S. over the Low Twelve, rolling consistent scores of 215, 204 and 207. The R. C. G. S. and the Bulldogs won three straight over the Eagles and Roughy teams respectively. The R. C. G. S. won three by forfeit.

GOUGH NATIONALS ORGANIZED IN 1883 BY JAMES MUTRIE

John B. Day, Patron of the Game. Financed Organization at Request of Mutrie

CORNELIUS VAN COTT PRESIDENT AFTER DAY

Giants Finished First in 1888 and 1889

NEW YORK.—The New York National league baseball club came into being in 1883, with John B. Day, a patron of the game, financing the project. James Mutrie, whose name still lives as the "Father of the Giants," induced Day to back the club after the game had been tried on the old Polo grounds, then on Fifth avenue.

Mutrie managed the club, which was admitted to the National league the same year it was organized. The New York team took the place of the Troy team which had dropped out of the league and used the best of the Troy players, among them "Babe" Ewing, Mickey Welch, Roger Connor, Ed Haskins and Pat Hessler. All of them were large in stature and during one game Mutrie watched his men in action and remarked: "They are giants in action as well as stature." The name "Giants" has stuck ever since.

Van Cott President

Cornelius Van Cott became president of the club in 1893, Day having sold his interests. Mutrie was deposed, broken hearted, and John W. Ward became manager. The team finished fifth in 1894 and second the following season. In 1895, the late Andrew Freedman purchased the controlling interest in the club and was president for eight years. With the exception of 1897, when the team finished third, it was always a trailer in the National league. Eleven managers had the Giants under Freedman. The list includes George Davis, Jack Doyle, Harvey Watkins, Arthur Irwin, Bill Joyce, Capt. A. C. Anson, John T. Day, Fred Hoey, Buck Ewing, George Smith and Homer Fazel.

Freedman finally was induced to give John McGraw a chance in the managerial office. John T. Brush purchased the team in 1903 and placed McGraw in control. The team jumped, almost instantly into popular favor with the public and has since proven one of the best financial investments in the National league.

Under Day and Mutrie the Giants finished first in 1888 and 1889.

WORLD'S SERIES BULLETINS

Bulletins of the world's series starting at the Polo Grounds between the New York American and National league teams will be posted in the front windows of the Tribune and Leader-Press offices each day. Accounts of the succeeding plays of the games will be received instantly over the Associated Press wire and fans are invited to "witness the world's series" at the Tribune and Leader-Press building. The report received by the Tribune comes direct from the ball park at New York and fans will know every ball and strike called during the game, together with each detail of the series, as they arise.

TIGER OUTFIELDER COPS BATTING HONOR IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

Cobb is Close Second With Babe Ruth and Sisler Following Third and Fourth

NEW YORK.—Harry Heilmann, Detroit's slugging outfielder, won the 1921 batting championship in the American league by .3003 of a point, according to unofficial figures made public Monday. Heilmann's boss, Manager Ty Cobb, gave him a merry chase for the title. They were virtually tied when the season closed Sunday with .290 each, but the figures when carried out to four percentage points gave Heilmann .3003 and Cobb .2901. Ruth, New York, was third with .277; Sisler, St. Louis, last year's champion, fourth, .271, and Speaker, Cleveland, fifth, .257.

Roger Hornsby, the St. Louis Cardinals' star second baseman, topped the National league batters with .298, the unofficial averages showed. This figure is an increase of 28 points over his total last year when he also was the senior organization's champion. Roush, Cincinnati, was second this year with .252; Cruise, Boston, third, .249; McHenry, St. Louis, fourth, .248, and Meusel, New York, fifth, .243.

The other matches in the second flight went by default. Dr. Kilbourne of Rochester forfeited to John Dietz by reason of his inability to make the trip to Winona this week and H. C. Carvin forfeiting to F. Bell by reason of his absence from the city. This leaves two matches still to be played. Joyce, Capt. A. C. Anson, John T. Day, Fred Hoey, Buck Ewing, George Smith and Homer Fazel.

ARBITERS NAMED FOR CUBS AND SOX SERIES IN CHICAGO

Meeting of Rival Managers to be Held Tuesday Noon; Go Over Playing Rules

CHICAGO, Ill.—President W. H. McCarthy of the Pacific coast league, who will have charge of the city series between White Sox and Cubs, announced Monday that the umpires who will officiate during the contest will be William Klem and Barney McCork for the National league and George Hildbrand and Brick Owen for the American. These arbitration men were appointed by wire by President Heydler and Johnson, who are in New York for the world's series.

Teams to Meet Today

A meeting of the umpires, rival managers and captains of the White Sox and Cubs will be held Tuesday at noon in President McCarthy's suit at the Congress hotel, to go over the playing rules and arrive at an understanding in case of any differences in their interpretation by the two major leagues.

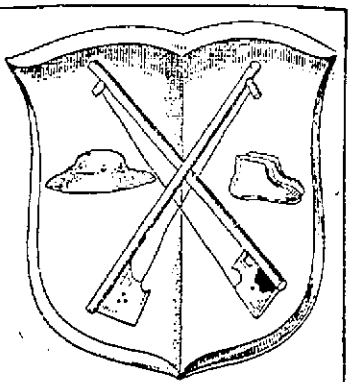

The schedule for the city series calls for the opening game at Comiskey park Wednesday afternoon, then two games at the Cubs' park, Thursday and Friday, to be followed by Saturday and Sunday games on the south side. In case rain or postponements interfere with the early schedule, the Saturday and Sunday games will be played at Comiskey park, weather permitting.

Regular Prices Prevail

Reserved seats for the opening game Wednesday can be obtained at the box office of the White Sox park, and also seats for the games to be played on the Sox park Saturday and Sunday. The reserved seats for the games at the north side park are on sale at that park.

General admission seats will be sold only on the day of the games, and there will be the usual quantity of them. Regular season prices will prevail.

DECLARES COMMONS

No Use in Re-opening Employment Agencies Unless Politicians are Kept Out

UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS IN ADDRESS TO KIWANIS CLUB

Urges Neutral Examining Board to Make Appointments

MADISON, Wis. — It is not worth while for the unemployment conference called by President Harding to recommend that congress start up the federal employment offices again, unless the conference can show congress how to keep the offices out of the hands of politicians, Prof. John R. Commons, University of Wisconsin professor and former member of the state industrial commission told the Kiwanis club here Monday.

The first difficulty in dealing with unemployment in this country, Prof. Commons said, is political politics. It became that because politicians and labor politics were additional hindrances to a practical application of the system of employment offices.

"When the federal government started the public employment offices during the war, labor unions thought they were entitled to the appointments, and it turned out that labor politicians got the jobs as public employment officers," Prof. Commons said. "No employer will continue to have unemployed persons sent to him by a labor politician, so the office has come a long way instead of an employment office."

"Now the capitalists are in control of the employment offices, and that means also the labor politicians, of a different kind, who cater to the capitalists instead of to the labor unions. This combination of political parties and economic politics is to be expected."

"What is needed is an examining board to go out and find employment agents who are competent, with ability to fill positions and with the confidence of both employers and labor unions. The only examining board that can successfully select such employment officials is a joint board appointed equally by organized capitalists and organized laborers."

"The public employment offices are the first and most important instrument for organizing the labor market. They are the labor exchanges, where employers come to seek laborers and laborers come to seek employers. Evidently these offices will not be used by employers or laborers if they are run by politicians."

THE FIRST FIREMEN

The fighting organizations of men are known to have existed in the second century before Christ. Heron of Alexandria, two hundred years before the Christian era, in an old manuscript which has escaped destruction, described an hydraulic machine used by Egypt during the time of the Ptolemies. It was composed of two brass cylinders resting on a wooden base with pistons fitted into them—in its principle practically like our present engine.

The Romans had squads of men to carry water in "bucinae" or light vessels, to the scene of an outbreak where it was projected onto the fire by these in charge of the "siphones" or hand pumps. The precise nature of this instrument has not been determined, but from specimens found in excavations it must have been much like the old-fashioned syringe used by gardeners. These large organizations of men gave the Roman authorities trouble by their turbulence.

Mention is made of the medieval use of forcing pumps as fire engines at Ayrburg in 1518.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH US, ANYWAY?

Otto H. Kahn, of Kahn, Loeb & Co., New York Bankers, gives the Tribune and Leader-Press His Opinion.

BY OTTO H. KAHN of Kahn, Loeb & Co., New York.

Why is it that after many months of war liquidation and readjustment, we are still in the throes of poor under, tight money, restricted credit, diminished enterprise and employment and general disaffection?

There are a number of reasons. A war of unprecedented scope and costliness, accompanied by corresponding inflation of currency and production.

A peace equally unprecedented in its all effects and in the emergency between professed aims and actual performance.

Governmental incapacity, neglect and blundering. Excessive expansion, overtrading and lack of foresight on the part of a considerable portion of the business community.

Exorbitant hoarding of the cost of labor and stubborn insistence, in some instances, upon conditions not normally tolerable. Governmental and private extravagance.

Tax System of 1917

But there is one element which, more than any other single cause, has stood and still stands in the way of our economic recovery. That is the inequivalent, dishonest and mischievous system of taxation adopted in 1917.

Leaving aside its appalling complexity, its irritating and obnoxious cumbersome, the unfairness of its incidence and its manifold actual and moral impediments to effort and enterprise, it has produced two effects of fundamental destructiveness:

It has prevented the accumulation of new capital, and it has violently interfered with the normal flow of existing capital.

Capital has been driven from the highways of trade because the government lies in wait and exacts a mind-boggling, too, of the fact that there huge toll going up to three-quarters is another way called "tax-exempt of the wayfarer's income, blindly securities" which is not only safer,

CONSIDER the LAMB

It carries around in its woolly little body a tremendous amount of food energy, yet the consumption of lamb is very low when shown by comparison with pork and beef. The per capita consumption is as follows:

|------------|-------------|
| LAMB | 6.1 pounds |
| BEEF | 56.4 pounds |
| PORK | 71. pounds |

Perhaps you are one of those who have considered lamb as useful only in the making of soup or broth for invalids.

will give you a chance to try for yourself the value of lamb as a highly nutritious food.

Furthermore, lamb is not high-priced. Ask your butcher to tell you all the reasons why you should smoother and less laborious to travel, but is entirely free from toll.

For this throttling of the supply of capital for construction uses we have chosen the very time when we were most in need of an ample supply of funds, because European capital, of which we had largely drawn before the war, is no longer available to us owing to the effects of the war—indeed, Europe, instead of being a provider of capital, has become an eager borrower here—and because the process of readjusting our industries to peace conditions and bringing our productive capacity in line with post-bellum requirements and opportunities involves a very heavy cash drain.

Adversity and hardships have come since the farmer, as they have come or cannot fail to come, in a greater or less degree, upon every element in the community in the painful economic process through which the country is passing.

The farmer is gravely discontented, and under a sense of grievance with the existing order of things. His just grievances call for immediate intelligent consideration and for effective redress.

If that redress can only be made effective by methods which are new and somewhat unpalatable to the established ways of business, then the less important will have to yield to the most important, i. e., business convenience and customs to the true welfare of the farming industry.

It hardly needs affirmation that in the difficult process of adjusting our affairs from an artificial and highly inflated basis to a true and normal one, labor cannot be left unaided. On the whole, the workers, unaided or otherwise, have come to recognize that fact.

We are all beneficiaries of one another's prosperity, and it hardly needs arguing to prove that it is in the best interest of the employer, even from the merely selfish point of view, not to pay the lowest wages to which labor can be squeezed down, but rather the highest wages compatible with the successful conduct of his business and with keeping his product at reasonable cost.

By the same token, it is in the interest of the worker to be an efficient producer and not to slacken on the job.

Extract from speech before Traffic Club at Pittsburgh.

Last year we were told to spend our money—and now we admit it.

Pouring into City from all Directions

NEW YORK.—The metropolis is all worked up over the big series. The novelty of having its own two major league clubs fighting it out for the highest baseball honors has set the whole town agog and Father Knickerbocker is lightening his nerves to withstand a hectic ordeal.

So far the battle has been entirely on paper but the teams will get down to business Wednesday afternoon at the Polo grounds.

Enthusiasts by the thousands are pouring into the city from the north, southeast and west—a few with tickets and others with hopes of getting them. Hotels are rapidly filling and it is predicted that sleeping space will be at a premium.

Both the Giants and the Yankees hold their final practice Tuesday. Light field and batting workouts were the order of the day at the Polo grounds, each team having been allotted different hours for the last day's preparations.

Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, is here with many other prominent baseball men. The outlook is favorable for fine weather Tuesday and Wednesday.

The rival managers, McGraw and Huggins, are equally confident of the outcome of the games.

AND FOX NEWS

Solomon Haddad and Friend are invited to the Riviera Wednesday as guests of the management.

Music Study club concert series. This orchestra of eighty-five pieces (the largest orchestra ever brought to La Crosse) is under the distinguished leadership of Eugene Ysaie. The organization is now in the twenty-seventh year of its activity and has a record of constant artistic growth. It has made Cincinnati famous and has achieved for itself great distinction.

A symphony concert is the highest form of musical expression and there is nothing in the musical world greater than a symphony orchestra whose members are in perfect sympathetic accord with their director. The intense admiration of the men in the Cincinnati orchestra for their great director, Mr. Ysaie, is well known. His own profound musicianship is an inspiration to his men as well as to his audience and as a result the concerts of this orchestra are unique in their artistic excellence and impressiveness.

GENERAL HOLWAY IS RETAINED IN GUARD POSITION BY BLAINE

Governor Praises Record of Adjutant General in Keeping up Standard of Militia

MADISON, Wis.—The record of Adjutant General Orlando Holway, in administering the Wisconsin National guard, is praised by Governor Blaine in a letter advising the adjutant that it is the desire of the executive that he be retained at his post despite the fact that he has reached retirement age.

The statute provides that the governor may reappoint the adjutant general when he becomes 64 years of age. General Holway becomes eligible for retirement this day, after eight years' service in his present position and more than 26 years as a member of the guard.

"I desire to advise you that I believe it wise at this time to appoint an adjutant general in your stead, and I feel that your present status might well be maintained," Governor Blaine says in his letter.

"I believe it is generally recognized," the governor declares, "and I recognize the fact that in 1917 when the National guard was called into service of the United States, great credit should be accorded you for your efficient and expeditious administration in that emergency. The National guard is undergoing a reorganization, and the state ought to avail itself of your services and experience.

"I thought you might want to know, and I am sure the National guard will want to know my attitude."
